Richard C. Wender, MD, Chair of Family Medicine and Community Health, Perelman School of Medicine, University of Pennsylvania; Chair, NCCRT

2:00 to 3:00 PM Panel Session: The COVID-19 Pandemic & Impacts to Colorectal Cancer Screening

Amidst March 2020, National Colorectal Cancer Awareness Month, medical providers and healthcare systems across the country halted many “non-essential” healthcare services and procedures in hopes of significantly reducing the spread of COVID-19, including colorectal cancer screening. The action caused immediate and longer-term impacts to our field, including delayed and cancelled screenings, missed diagnoses, and a further exacerbation in disparities and burdens felt by under-represented communities – all of which will lead to excess deaths from colorectal cancer. This session will explore how the pandemic affects colorectal cancer screening at different intersections of the healthcare system.

Moderator and Presenter: Folasade (Fola) May, MD, PhD, Assistant Professor of Medicine, Director of Quality Improvement, UCLA Health; Veterans Affairs

Gastroenterology: Mark Pochapin, MD, President of the American College of Gastroenterology; Gastroenterology Division Director at NYU Langone Health

Hospital Systems: Jay Bhatt, DO, Principal, JDB Strategies LLC and former SVP & Chief Medical Officer of the American Hospital Association

Concurrent Session 1: Innovative Strategies to Reach Patients for Colorectal Cancer Screening During COVID-19

This session will move beyond describing the challenges of reaching patients for colorectal cancer screening amidst the COVID-19 pandemic to showcasing innovative health care-based solutions. Examples will include the use of animated video education to encourage FIT completion among the uninsured and under-insured; early insights from the Colorectal Cancer Alliance's new, multi-city Screening During COVID campaign and screening navigation tool; and process recommendations for prioritizing patients for colonoscopy following resumption of routine endoscopic exams in New York City.

Laura Makaroff, DO, Senior Vice President, Prevention and Early Detection, American Cancer Society, Inc.; NCCRT Steering Committee (Moderator)

Renay Caldwell, Director of Navigation Services, Colorectal Cancer Prevention Network

Michael Sapienza, CEO, Colorectal Cancer Alliance

David A. Greenwald, MD, FACP, Director of Clinical Gastroenterology and Endoscopy, the Mount Sinai Hospital; President-elect, American College of Gastroenterology; Co-chair, NCCRT Public Awareness & Social Media Strategic Priority Team

3:10 to 4:10 PM

Concurrent Session 2: Early Age Onset Colorectal Cancer Screening Updates

Our understanding of early age onset colorectal cancer (EAO CRC) improves with each passing year. Leading researchers, non-profit organizations, and national agencies have invested considerable time, funding, discussion, and other resources toward coordinating a comprehensive approach to tackling this alarming issue. This session will dive into some of the latest research and trends related to EAO CRC and explore future steps we can take to address this issue.

Heather Hampel, MS, LGC, Associate Director, The Ohio State University Comprehensive Cancer Center, Human Genetics, NCCRT Steering Committee (Moderator)

Rebecca L. Siegel, MPH, Scientific Director, Surveillance Research, American Cancer Society, Inc.

Samir Gupta, MD, MSCS, AGAF, Professor, Division of Gastroenterology, Department of Internal Medicine; Co-Lead, Cancer Control Program, Moores Cancer Center; University of California San Diego; Chief, GI Section, San Diego Veterans Affairs Healthcare System
